

Call for Submissions to Share your Work in Global Health!

This is an open invitation to submit materials in conjunction with the Global Health Celebration on April 24, 2017.

UVM College of Medicine and College of Nursing & Health Sciences faculty, staff, students, and residents are invited to submit their work in three categories:

Posters

Participants are invited to submit a poster about global health work or research. Poster submissions can be current or past work, previously presented or not. Participants will be notified of poster acceptance by April 19, 2017. All posters will be eligible for awards in the Annual Global Health Poster Contest.

Poster Proposal Submission Form

Reflections

Participants are encouraged to submit a brief reflection piece (1-2 pages) on their experiences working overseas. Submissions will be considered for the Annual Global Health Reflection Awards presented on Monday, April 24.

Photography

Participants are asked to submit up to five photographs that represent their work in global health. Submissions will be displayed as part of the Global Health Day celebration, and considered for the Annual Global Health Photography Awards presented on Monday, April 24.

Please submit your materials via email to Audree.Frey@med.uvm.edu by Friday, April 14 at 5 PM.

Save the Date! April 24, 2017

This year's Global Health Day will feature an exhibit of posters, photographs and reflections; presentation of the Patricia O'Brien and Beth Kirkpatrick Global Health Leadership Awards; a Global Health Networking Reception, and the Dean's Distinguished Lecture in Global Health delivered by Dr. Julio Amado Castaños Guzmán, president of Hospital General de la Plaza de la Salud and dean of Universidad Iberomericana (UNIBE) in The Dominican Republic.

The University of Vermont

Western Connecticut
Health Network

Danbury Hospital - New Milford Hospital - Norwalk Hospital