

The Larner College of Medicine Doctoral Dissertation Fellowship Award annually recognizes an outstanding PhD candidate in a LCOM lab. Awardees must be in the final anticipated year of their graduate work (i.e., should be on course to write and defend their dissertation within the next 12-18 months). This competitive award, funded by the Alumni Development Office, will provide a full stipend and benefits to a PhD student in a LCOM lab who has demonstrated excellence in their graduate work. Competitive candidates may demonstrate their qualifications through peer-reviewed publications, presentations at national/international meetings, and other recognitions of scholarly contributions to their field.

Complete applications, including the requested documentation, should be sent to erin.montgomery@uvm.edu by 5 pm on May 15th of the prior fiscal year.

1. Name of Trainee: _____
2. Trainee Email: _____
3. Principle Investigator: _____
4. Principle Investigator Email: _____
5. Anticipated Dissertation Title: _____
6. Anticipated Defense Date: _____
7. Degree Program: BIOE CMB CTS NGP Other: _____

In addition to providing the above information, please submit;

- A cover letter summarizing your accomplishments
- A letter of recommendation from your PI
- A letter of recommendation from your Dissertation Committee Chair with specific notation of your defense timeline
- A copy of your NIH Biosketch

Please contact Dr. Chris Berger (cberger@uvm.edu) or Erin Montgomery (656-9925) with any questions.

Trainee Signature

Date

PI Signature

Date

Dissertation Committee Chair Signature

Date