

Research project opportunity!

Join a multi-site research project looking at patients with extremely high white blood cell counts (greater than 50,000/uL) in peripheral blood. Extreme leukocytosis suggests a leukemoid reaction or a hematologic malignancy. Who gets it, how to identify the cause, and what the prognosis is has been poorly characterized in the current literature?

Manuscript expected to be published in a high-impact peer-reviewed journal. We are looking for a dedicated student to help with retrospective chart review.
