In the coming weeks, COMTS will be transitioning the LCOM Commons (commons.med.uvm.edu) to a new platform. As part of our long-term strategic plan, this effort will continue our commitment to providing needed, secure, and reliable services to our community.

We know that for over a decade many of you have relied on the Commons to deliver a collaboration space for efforts between Larner College of Medicine, the University of Vermont, and the University of Vermont Health Network. We will continue to deliver this service on the new platform, with enhancements to allow for easier management, tighter integration with other Microsoft services, and ensure modern and secure cloud services.

We look forward to providing this upgrade out to our community soon, further communication will be sent out later this month.
