Dear Larner Community,

On April 13-15, our College will welcome more than 200 academic medicine faculty, residents, fellows, and students to our campus as we host the premier medical education gathering in our region, the Northeast Group on Educational Affairs (NEGEA). This conference is returning to Larner for the first time in 13 years, and after a delay of three years caused by the pandemic. The conference theme, "Fostering Personal and Professional Vitality in Academic Medicine," accentuates the importance and excitement of coming back together, in person, to share knowledge and ideas for advancing medical education.

Activities will take place in classrooms, lecture halls, and meeting spaces throughout the Larner College of Medicine and across UVM's main campus, providing an opportunity to showcase the University's and College's world-class education and research facilities and adjacent teaching hospital. When you see our NEGEA guests, please be sure to say hello and welcome them to Vermont.

It is a great honor to host this gathering on our campus, and a privilege to welcome distinguished plenary speakers Joseph A. Tyndall, M.D., M.P.H., FACEP, Executive Vice President of Health Affairs, Professor and Dean at Morehouse School of Medicine; Elizabeth Gaufer, M.D., M.P.H., Associate Professor of Medicine and Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and Director of the Cambridge Health Alliance Center for Professional and Academic Development; and Kimara Ellefson, M.B.A., National Director of Strategy and Partnerships for Kern National Network for Flourishing in Medicine. Congratulations to the numerous Larner College of Medicine students, academic and clinical faculty, and staff who will present their work.

Planning and hosting an event of this magnitude is truly a team effort. Thank you to The Teaching Academy, and to everyone who participated in planning committees for the event and to those who will assist at the conference.

Sincerely,

Rick
