

COVID AND THE NOCTURNISTS

Friends,

The Nocturnists is collecting stories about the physical, intellectual, emotional, and spiritual experience of being on the front lines of the COVID pandemic.

Our organization's mission is to provide a safe psychological space for healthcare workers to express themselves in their full-fledged humanity. During these challenging times, we continue to serve as a creative outlet for you. We also feel it's important to document this historic moment in medical history.

We're not looking for perfect, polished stories. We just want to understand your raw experience. We wouldn't be surprised if your world feels surreal, weirdly normal, or even paradoxical. We want to hear about the moments of fear, boredom, adrenaline, panic, heroism, frustration, innovation, ambivalence, or deranged joy. All can be true.

This is a rapidly evolving project. We don't have a concrete plan for what we will do with this material. Some of this will depend on how the global story progresses.

Just know that whatever you are experiencing, you are not alone, and The Nocturnists is here to hold you in community.

To share your experience with us, fill out the form here.

Note: We are also looking for a handful of healthcare workers who are interested in keeping an audio diary about their COVID experience over the next several weeks. If you're interested in this extended documentary storytelling opportunity, e-mail us ASAP at thenocturnists@gmail.com.

With love and strength,
Emily and The Nocturnists Team
