Dear Medical School Contact,

Below is a copy of today's communication that was sent to students regarding the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) new student and resident website that will be released in early April. If you have any questions, please contact the AAMC Webmaster at webmaster@aamc.org.

Sincerely,
The ERAS Team

Dear Applicant,

The AAMC's student and resident website is getting a makeover in early April!

The enhanced version of the site will have the same overall structure, but with a new look that's similar to the AAMC's other websites. The new website will also be easier to navigate, while remaining mobile-friendly and maintaining the features and content you find most valuable.

You will be able to more easily access our resources thanks to our improved, more intuitive search tool across all AAMC platforms. The new search function will continue to improve as we learn what topics and resources you're looking for.

Page banners will show maintenance and major news. Other important updates and announcements will now be located on the sidebar, along with frequently-needed features such as application log-in buttons, alerts, social media handles, and contact information.

This redesign is the result of extensive user research and website data analysis. And this is just the first step. We will continue to add new features and enhancements to the site in the future.

Thank you,
The AAMC Services Communications team
