Subject: The University of New Mexico Orthopaedics Virtual Information Program

University of New Mexico School of Medicine
Department of Orthopaedics
Virtual Information Program (VIP)

The University of New Mexico \(UNM\) Department of Orthopaedics invites fourth-year medical students interested in learning more about the Orthopaedic Residency Program in New Mexico to participate in the Virtual Information Program (VIP). The VIP will provide students access to weekly conferences including Grand Rounds, subspecialty teaching and indications conferences, and resident didactic sessions.

Additionally, students will have scheduled time to meet with residents and staff to explore the nuances of the program. The VIP will also include structured teaching time with faculty each week to allow students the opportunity to explore the various subspecialties offered at UNM.

Interested students may register here and submit the attached confirmation of enrollment form signed by their Dean of Students. After approval by the Department of Orthopaedics and UNM School of Medicine Office of Medical Student Affairs, students will be given access to the VIP. This program is for information and educational purposes only and is not offered for credit. There is no charge for participation. Students choosing to participate in the VIP are under no obligation to partake in all offerings and are encouraged to use this as an avenue to learn more about the Orthopaedic Residency Program at the University of New Mexico.
