Title	Food Insecurity Resources
Summary	Vermont Foodbank is assisting students with applications
Additional Information	Temporary expansions to college student eligibility are tied to the federal declaration of emergency, which has not been lifted. College students who are eligible now under expanded eligibility should apply as soon as possible. Once they're enrolled, they will not become ineligible even if the federal state of emergency has been lifted and flexibilities are rescinded. They'll remain enrolled until their 'certification period' is up (typically 1 year). Vermont Foodbank has been assisting college students in the application process.
